Paul Magel joined CGS in 1997 and has over 25 years of experience in the information technology space. As President of the Application Solutions group at CGS, he leads the Software Solutions practice as well as the Technology and Infrastructure practice overseeing sales, delivery, support and development. Paul is also responsible for the CGS Global Software Development Centers in Europe and India. He began his career at IBM, and held various technical positions before moving into sales and marketing. Paul currently serves on the International Trade and Marketing Advisory Board of the Fashion Institute of Technology, SUNY, and is a noted speaker and published author on a number of topics ranging from technology to supply chain solutions. He holds a Bachelor degree in Computer Science and an MBA in Marketing and Executive Management.